Full job description

Your new company

This large listed company provides servicing operations to drilling and exploration companies involved in mining and infrastructure.

Your new role

The company is undertaking a strategic and financial review of its remote servicing operations which includes manufacturing, repair, maintenance, logistics. The areas targeted include, reporting on opportunities for profitability at operational level, cost reductions and or investment, recommending frameworks, processes in maximising revenue across contracts, tendering to ensure achievement of target returns, developing new services strategy, and analysis of capital upgrades.

What you'll need to succeed

This hands on contract role requires a high level of commercial acumen and knowledge of operating costs associated with large infrastructure or manufacturing assets and how to get the best return on them. Experience in developing proposals for cost reductions and investment cases will be highly regarded.
